As I said before, our object is to rectify this great growing evil-a Society that will prevent the further growth of hoops-that will lower the heels, make gentlemen's legs larger, and place his vest where it should be, in the museum five francs to drink my health." "Alas! alas!" groaned the porte-d'ehere Cer-berus, as he pocketed the silver piece, and promised, in a tone of melancholy devotedness, to do his best. That evening the widow, accompanied by her femme de chambre, took up her quarters in a small cottage near the village of Fontenay-aux-Roses, outside the Barriere d'En fer, and contiguous to the pretty Bois de Mendon, where she rusticated in the full enjoyment of her independent widowhood till the expira

SUNDAY..................FEB. 22, 1857.

IT The editor of the organ has concluded to sublimated, and sugared over with stuff about the Union. The organ is now on a gullcatching expedition. We want to know if the organ has given up the doctrine that Americans shall rule America, and come down to nothing at all? Unnaturalized foreigners are not to vote or hold office, is the extent of the new revelation now, according to the latest interpretation. This has been the fixed policy of all parties, in included. We hear no more of the sons of the soil ruling America. There is a great falling off here; a miserable defection from the true faith, and the organ indorses it. The brothren in this locality ought not to submit to such things. They ought to take the conductors of the organ out and talk to them vigorously. There is need of a new organ that will hold on to the faith but lately delivered, and ratified by so much swearing. The defection on the religious question is very glaring and reprehensible. Have the brethren retired from a contest with the man of sin, and are they preparing for an ignominious surrender? We were assured that there was a power rising up that would prostrate the triple crown of Rome in the dust. It looks very much like a surrender or a retreat. as it appears in this platform. But the editor disposes of the resolution in opposition to the extension of slavery. He says it is only the expression of an abstract opinion-quite a satislactory excuse for those who want one. They will vote it, and carry it out, and still it will only be carrying out an abstraction of theirs. Our readers will mark the progress now of this movement. A union is to be effected between the factions; and for that purpose Sambo must be propitiated; and that is the purpose of this resolution. The brethren South must exercise themselves in explaining, and frittering away the overtures to Sambo. It all doesn't amount to much, as the prospect of success is small, and very remote. The slavery question in the territories is settled, as far as any political action is concerned; and it doesn't matter much what the abstract or practical opinions of the Anniversary of Washington's Natal Day.

Next in importance to the anniversary of the Christian Era. We mean to speak reverently when we say that these events are the birth of our Saviour, the circumstance which gave Washington to the cause of liberty, and the dawn of American Independence. We come to-day to commemorate the second event in this hallowed trinity, and its recurrence upon this beanof sacredness around the festivity. The following beautiful ode from the pen of the gifted Bishop England, of South Carolina, is a fitting tribute to the Father of his Country:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. Senate.—Mr. Wilson gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill granting the cities of Washington and Georgetown 500,000 acres of land for the support of public schools.

The last accounts from Gen. Walker, Feb. 3d. He was then at San Juan del Sur with 300 men. He had established his headquarters at Rivas, and was concentrating all his force there—amounting to 800 men.

The Senate then proceeded to the considera-tion of the House bill authorizing the people of Minnesota to form a Constitution and State Government preparatory to admission into the

Mr. Biggs moved an amendment that none but citizens of the United States be entitled to but citizens of the United States be entitled to vote with reference to formation of the Constitution and universally acknowledged in the United State Government. He did not know but what the offering of such a proposition night subject him to suspicion of being tainted with Know Nothingism; but whether this was one of the Principles of the American party or the was decidedly in two of sentings the

Mr. Douglas replied to Mr. Bigg's remarks, antaining that the amendment was improper, and showing in several instances that persons had been constituted citizens of some of the States who were not citizens of the United

Mr. Seward considered the question involved as settled long ago, and forever. If Congress can permit all the people of California and Texas to come iuto the Union as organized States, it can say a class of persons within the United States who are not citizens shall exercise the right of suffrage on thss, which is a smilar

He was in favor of admitting aliens to vote, precisely for the reason that these new States are to be chiefly settled by aliens and foreign ers, or in a large degree by them, and believed that this class of immigrants who come this S. M. LEMONT country, are, as a general fact, as intelligent, and capable of exercising the functions of selfrovernment as our own educated citizens Mr. Bell, of Tenn., favored the amendments, and advocated such a modification of the existing naturalization laws as would provide addi tional securities against the gross abuses which

Mr. Douglas appealed to the Senate, not to enter into long discussions, else they might lose important territorial bills. Measrs. Mason, Bigs and Crittenden advoca-

had been practiced under the

ed, and Toucey and Wilson opposed it.

Mr. Glay entered a protest against Seward's octrine that the right of suffrage was co-ordi nate with the obligation to submit to and suport any defined government that would allo nfants, women and colored persons to vote, and this should teach the importance of being some limit attached to the right of forming organic laws. He was the first in the Senate to denounce Know-Nothingism, but would vote this amendment. He confessed that he erred in voting for the Nebraska bill, after Clayton's amendment was stricken out.

Mr. Butler said he too voted for Mr. Clayton's amendment, but yielded, from the necesity of the case, to save the bill. Mr. Biggss' amendment was adopted-27 against 21

He hoped the resolution missed from office. He hoped the resolution nding would be postponed till Saturday next. Mr. Barbour concurred in this suggestion.

Mr. Humphrey Marshall did not know how the House could repair the injustice done to Judge Watrons better than by ordering the imliment; and they might as well do it now. If he were Judge Watrous, he would demand

Mr. Ready, although he had no right to speak by anthority, had understood that Judge Watons desires the investigation, and thinks he will e perfectly able to refute the charges.

Mr. Sandidge thought it a most monstrous roposition to seriously consider the subject heore even the evidence is printed. The subject was then postpoued till Saturday.

The House took up a resolution reported
